

— WEBSITE DESIGN — FOR REVIEW

A catalogue built to bring you enquiries.

Nine pages covering the five stationery ranges, designed so a school or an office can find what they need and ask for a price without leaving the page.

What this site does, and what it deliberately does not.

It is a catalogue with an enquiry route, not a shop. Buyers browse the ranges, then ask for a quote. No prices, no cart, no checkout.

Nine pages

Home, About Us, five category pages, Gallery and Contact.

One category template

All five ranges share a single layout, so adding a sixth is a content job, not a design job.

No shop

Your existing Shop is carried across.

One problem with the logo file.

The artwork is two pieces, not one. GRADE is red; the “For Every People” line beneath it is pure white. So no single background shows the whole thing — and only navy shows both.

On white — tagline invisible

On navy — reads in full

On red — wordmark visible

The red is sampled from your logo.

Red carries every action — buttons, links, active states. Navy carries authority: headings, footer, dark bands. The greys are mixed on the same blue as the navy, so nothing looks muddy beside it.

Fraunces for headings. Raleway for everything else.

Fraunces gives headings a printed, established feel — appropriate for a company that sells paper.

Raleway holds up small in dense product grids. Both are free Google fonts: no licence to buy, nothing to renew.

DISPLAY

Fraunces SemiBold 72

Quality stationery, sourced direct.

HEADING

Fraunces SemiBold 36

Five ranges, supplied by the carton.

BODY

Raleway Regular 16

Pens, exercise books and office supplies for schools and offices.

03 — THE SCREENS

Nine pages, one system.

Five shown here. The four remaining category pages use the same template.

Category — School Stationery

One template drives all five ranges. Sub-categories filter along the top; every item has its own photograph and an enquiry link.

ABOUT GRADE

Supplying Bangladesh since 2019.

Over 300 work orders completed for more than 50 companies, from a base in Dhanmondi, Dhaka.

OUR VISION

A supply chain with nothing hidden in it.

Grade exists to take the guesswork out of buying stationery in Bangladesh. One supplier, one invoice, and prices that reflect the goods rather than the chain that carried them — against a specification a school or an office can plan a year around.

OUR MISSION

Cut the inter... specification

We buy direct from t... against the lines our... working day. No inter... delivery date.

Gallery

A two-column grid, each image captioned with the range it belongs to. This is where product, packaging and dispatch photography goes.

Contact

Your Query Zone, with one change: we ask what they need and how many. A quantity in the first message turns an enquiry into a quote without three emails first.

FULL PAGE

Six additions your wireframe did not include.

The wireframes are a clean catalogue, but they give a visitor nowhere to act. Each of these needs your approval.

01 Contact bar above the header

Your phone number and email on every page, before anyone scrolls.

02 Request a quote, always visible

05 Client logos and reviews

Buyers check who else you supply before they call. Currently placeholder.

06 A quote block above every footer

So no page is a dead end.

Restrained by choice.

Movement shows what is clickable and what changed. Nothing decorative, nothing that delays a buyer.

Category dropdown

Hovering Product Categories reveals all five ranges, so a buyer reaches any range in one move from any page.

Slider

Six slides, moved by arrows or dots.
Each carries its own headline and image.

Buttons and cards

Colour deepens and the arrow advances on hover. No zooming photographs.

What is real, and what is standing in.

So there is no confusion at sign-off.

ITEM	STATUS	NOTE
Address, phone, email	Real	Taken from your existing site.
2019 · 300+ orders · 50+ companies	Real	Your own published figures — please confirm they are current.
All photography	Placeholder	Licensed stock, chosen to show what each slot needs.
Client logos	Placeholder	Invented names. Real logos need each client's permission.
Reviews	Placeholder	Written by us to show the layout. Real quotes need written approval.
Item names and specifications	Placeholder	Plausible, but not your catalogue. We need your product list.
Opening hours, FAQ answers	Placeholder	Sunday–Thursday 9:00–18:00 is an assumption.

Nine things, in the order they block us.

01 The logo as vector artwork

Plus wordmark-only, a light-background tagline version, and an all-white version.

04 Your product list

Item names, sizes and specs per range — and the full sub-category list.

07 Real FAQ answers

Minimum order quantity and delivery areas are what buyers ask first.

02 Confirm how to describe you

We have written the site as a supplier, not a manufacturer. Tell us if that is wrong.

05 Where enquiries should go

Which inbox, whether to store a copy, and which fields are mandatory.

08 Client logos and one or two reviews

With written permission for each.

03 Product photos

Around 30 items in a consistent format.

06 Opening hours

We have written the site as a supplier, not a manufacturer. Tell us if that is wrong.

09 Social accounts

Only Facebook and Twitter are shown. The site shows five icons.

Something is wrong with your current website.

Separate from the design work, but it affects your business today.

01 The site does not load

gradebd.com returns a server timeout. We recovered your content from a web archive.

02 Pages you did not publish are on your site

Archive records show gambling and adult-content pages on your site this year. That is the signature of a hacked WordPress installation.

03 What it costs you

Google treats those pages as yours. It damages your search results and can affect whether email from your domain is trusted.

04 What we recommend

Do not migrate the existing installation. The new site must be installed on a new domain. Update DNS before go-live.

Three steps to a live site.

01 You review these designs

Mark anything you want changed, and approve the six additions in section 04. Structural changes are far cheaper now than once the build starts.

02 You send the content in section 07

Photography and the product list hold everything else up. The rest can follow while we build.

03 We build it

Astro for the site, Directus for the content. You will edit text and swap images by clicking them on the page itself — no training, no HTML.
